JUDGE LAWLOR DENIES MOTION TO SET ASIDE GRAFT INDICTMENTS

Sweeping Decision Precludes Possibility of Appeal to Supreme Court Until After Conviction.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—The last means of escaping trial on the indictment brought against them were exhausted this morning by the various defendants in the graft cases. Judge Lawlor's long deferred decision was against the defendants and was so sweeping in effect that it precluded possibility of appeal to the Supreme Court until after conviction.

CONSULTED SUPREME COURT.
In denying the motions of Patrick Calhoun, Thawell Molloy, Tiley I. Ford, Eugene E. Schmitz, Abraham Ruef, Eugene de Sibus, Frank Drumm, John Martin and Louis Glass for various actions including dismissal of indictments, stay of proceedings and striking indictments from the record, Judge Lawlor announced that his action had been taken after consultations with the Supreme Court. He explained that the reason for granting the writ to show cause by the Supreme Court was made in order to allow the Superior Court to exercise its own jurisdiction.

GIVES REVIEW.
Judge Lawlor did not hand down his fully written decision this morning, announcing that it would be filed later, but he gave to the various defendants and their attorneys a written review, including the following points:

"I have given a careful study to the propositions of fact and the questions of law involved, and have reached the conclusions that these motions should be denied. For the purpose of this decision I assume it to be the law of this State,

"First, That if a body of men styling itself a grand jury, a body having no legal semblance or color of authority whatsoever, files in the Superior Court a paper purporting to be an indictment, such a document cannot confer jurisdiction upon that court and on a suggestion of an interested party or such court of its own motion, the proceedings upon such purported indictments should be stayed."

INQUIRY LIMITED.
"Second, If there be no such question of jurisdiction presented, section 990 of the penal code limits that inquiry that may be made upon an indictment between the filing thereof and the plea thereto."

"Third, The statutory grounds for setting aside an indictment are limited to (Continued on Page 2)

WAGON HIT BY 2 CARS; DRIVER DEAD

W. Gibson Fatally Hurt and Vehicle Badly Wrecked.

In a collision with car No. 201 of the Oakland Traction Company at Eighth and Kirkham streets, about 9 o'clock this morning, William Gibson, an expressman seventy-two years old, and living at 1222 Fourteenth street, was thrown out of his wagon and injured so severely that he died at noon today. The old man, who was pioneer baggage man of Oakland, said he was struck by the car so quickly that he could not understand the circumstances of the collision. His wagon was demolished by car 161 when the horses started to run away.

Dr. Sanborn was called from the neighborhood and laid the sufferer on the sidewalk until the patrol arrived and moved him to the Receiving Hospital. Dr. Sanborn made an examination of the injuries and found that Gibson's right leg below the hip was fractured, besides cuts and bruises on his hands and face. Gibson stayed at the residence of Mrs. Steele, 1622 Fourteenth street.

Robert P. Day, of 538 Twenty-third street, who witnessed the accident, gives the following account of it:

"I was on my way to work on the eighth and Kirkham streets, Gibson tried to cross between our car and car 161, which was approaching from the other direction. His wagon was struck and he was thrown out. The westbound car then struck the wagon, completely demolishing it."

OFFICER IS SHOT DOWN AND KILLED; COMPANION ESCAPES FROM BULLETS

John Tansey, Striking Carman, Is in Jail, Charged With the Murder of Policeman E. McCartney.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Policeman Edward S. McCartney was shot and killed at 4 o'clock this morning by John T. Tansey, a striking carman. Tansey was arrested at 10:30 o'clock and charged at the city prison with murder.

Policemen McCartney and Mitchell were walking north on Folsom street, shortly before 4 o'clock this morning, when they noticed Tansey, with a companion, in a half drunken condition on the street. They approached the men and warned them that they had better cease creating a disturbance and go quietly to their homes. The two men seemed to resent the interference of the officers and after consulting together for a moment, approached them and without warning Tansey pulled a revolver almost in the face of McCartney and shot him in the neck. His companion also pulled a gun and fired two shots at Officer Mitchell, neither of which took effect.

PURSUES MURDERER.
After firing the shots the two men took to their heels and made off down Folsom street, turning in to Twenty-fourth. Mitchell stopped only a few moments to look at his wounded companion and made off after them. The officers gained headway and in the semi-darkness Mitchell soon lost track of them, and after a futile search he reported the affair to the Seventeenth street police station.

Meantime other officers had found McCartney lying on the sidewalk and he was rushed to the Central Emergency hospital where he died soon after being placed on the operating table.

SCOUR THE MISSION.
As soon as the affair was reported at police headquarters, Captain Colby, with Detectives Taylor, Cody, Bell, Graham, Smith, Riordan and Burke rushed for the scene. All of the police officers who are on duty on the watch from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m. in the Mission district were retained and engaged to scour the entire Mission.

6 KILLED AND 250 HURT WHEN TRAIN LEAVES RAILS

Fast Flyer Hits Curve and the Cars All Pile on Locomotive.

ORANGEVILLE, Ont. Sept. 3.—A Canadian Pacific Railway special train, carrying over 400 passengers bound for the Toronto Exposition was wrecked this morning at the Horse Shoe Falls. Six people were killed and over 250 injured.

The train left Orangeville at 9:15 one hour late. Half an hour later the locomotive jumped the rails going down the trail of the Horse Shoe curve of the Caledon mountain. Five crowded cars were piled up on top of the locomotive. At Orangeville every seat was filled and people were standing in the aisles. All the cars were jammed together in the fierce shock.

Not less than 300 passengers were on the train that was derailed, and at least 250 were injured—many of them fatally and six were killed outright.

It is said the engineer was trying to make up time and took the horse shoe curve at a high speed.

WARM RIOT RAGES WHEN EIGHT MEN ATTACK CARMAN

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—A small riot occurred at 1:30 o'clock this morning on Stuart and Market streets when a conductor of a Valencia street car attempted to put out eight offensive passengers.

The eight men boarded the car at the ferry and immediately began picking a fight with Conductor Abe Canland. Riots grew to blows and Canland, fearing for his life, drew a revolver and ordered the crowd off the car.

They refused to go and began closing in on the conductor again, when Joseph Maloney, also a carman, who was riding as a passenger, came to his comrade's assistance.

Maloney, too, drew a gun and between them they succeeded in getting the men off the car just as Officer Dolan came to the rescue.

At the sight of the officer the offenders fled and Dolan placed the two carmen under arrest and charged them with carrying concealed weapons.

VICTIM OF STREET CAR RIOT DIES OF WOUND

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—John Peterson, who was shot in the riot at Sanson and Market streets yesterday, died at the German Hospital this morning as the result of his injuries.

It was thought for a time that Peterson would recover and last night he seemed quite bright. At 4 o'clock this morning, however, a change for the worse set in and the man died about 9:30 o'clock.

Peterson was employed as a structural iron worker and was returning home after the parade yesterday when he became mixed up in the riot and was shot.

Arrested at 4:30 a. m., Is Serving Time in County Jail at 8 a. m.

Justice was swiftly dealt in Pleasanton this morning when Thomas Hurley was arrested at 4:30 o'clock by Constable Locke for disturbing the peace. At 5 o'clock he was taken before Justice of the Peace, P. C. Quinn and pleaded guilty to the disorderly charge. On the $20 train he left Pleasanton with the constable, and at 8 o'clock he was booked in the county jail to serve twenty days, in lieu of a fine of $20. This is one of the quickest routes an offender ever took in this county.

Attacks Chinese Interpreter, Who Is Handy With Fists

William Nelson, American and exclusionist, was strolling along Franklin street yesterday afternoon after an extensive celebration of Labor day, when he suddenly encountered the smiling Oriental visage of Geo. Thong, a Chinese interpreter employed in the local courts in his patriotic exclusionist frame of mind the spectacle displeased him immensely and he immediately attempted to maul it with his good right fist. He landed once right lustily, but much to his astonishment, before he succeeded in following up his lead, the young disciple of Confucius countered with vigor, and the intended chastisement developed into a spirited contest.

After the bout had progressed for several rounds, Wong produced a police whistle and awoke the afternoon echoes and incidentally the policeman on the beat, who immediately arrested both parties to the discussion. Later Nelson and Wong were released on their own recognizance to appear in the Police Court on Wednesday.

License Revenue of City Doubles Itself

The total amount of the municipal licenses paid in to the Tax Collector's office for the month of August not only breaks all previous monthly records in the history of Oakland, but it reveals the astonishing fact that in the past three years the city license receipts have just about doubled. The license collections for August amounted to $28,970.55. The nearest approach to this figure ever recorded in the treasurer's office was for the month of May of this year when the collection was $25,795.15, which is nearly $3,000 less than the receipts for last month.

The license collections for the month of August during the past four years have been as follows:

August, 1907, $28,970.55; August, 1906, $17,484.80; August, 1905, $15,011.01; August, 1904, $14,116.25.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF SAN FRANCISCO SUES TRIBUNE FOR $100,000 DAMAGES

The First National Bank of San Francisco today sued the TRIBUNE PUBLISHING COMPANY in the Superior Court of Alameda county for $100,000 damages for alleged libel. The alleged damages for alleged libel is complained of by the bank is set forth in the complaint as follows:

"For some time there has been gossip in banking circles of friction among the stockholders of the First National Bank of San Francisco. The alleged damages for alleged libel is complained of by the bank is set forth in the complaint as follows:

"It is included in the gossip on 'Change' that the Spring Valley bonds did not look good to the national bank examiners at the valuation placed on them by Spreckels and his associates, and that on examination day the securities have been reinforced by the joint personal notes of James D. Phelan and Rudolph Spreckels.

"The recent disclosures of the methods by which it was sought to unload Spring Valley's old junk, called a distributing system, together with its inadequate supply of inferior water, on the city at an outrageous figure, by the swinging of the big stick, has not enhanced the value of the securities of the corporation in the view of the national bank examiners.

"Even the effort to cloud the real purposes of the promoters of the Spring Valley job by calling it a civic uprising to stamp out municipal graft, is said to have failed to mislead the Federal experts. The suggestion that the big stick would force the city to purchase the plant of the decrepit corporation for $28,000,000 after real estate appraised by an expert at $5,000,000 and held by the bond holders to be worth as really speculation $15,000,000, has not enthused the Federal bank examiners in relation to the value of Spring Valley bonds as a security for a national bank."

The plaintiff asserts that it did not own Spring Valley bonds as set forth in the article. It further claims that it is not involved in the Spring Valley deal to unload the plant on the city of San Francisco. It is for these reasons that the plaintiff claims damages. Lloyd and Wood and Charles S. Wheeler are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

YOUNG BLOOD FOR WAR FLEET

Only Four Veterans Captains to Command in Squadron to Pacific.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Of the officers now commanding the eighteen battleships to make the long voyage from the Atlantic to the Pacific it is declared that only four captains now commanding ships will make the trip.

Secretary of the Navy Mead and his assistants have forwarded plans of advancing the young officers to the fighting line and keep the older on shore duty. Of the eighteen captains who will command and be responsible for the one hundred million dollars worth of armament and equipment to be sent through the Straits of Magellan to the Pacific, fourteen will be younger men than are now in command.

WHO THEY ARE.
The following are the four veteran captains who will go: Captain McCreary, commander of the Kansas, Oglethaus of the Connecticut and Wainwright of the Louisiana.
Among naval officers of high rank it was said yesterday that Captain McCreary, commander of the Kansas, might also keep in command, making five of the present captains to stay aboard ship for this cruise.
The cruise is scheduled to occur just after the onset of the Pacific winter and maneuvers off Cape Cod this month.

GIVES OPINION OF CAUSE OF THE STREET CAR RIOT

Trolley Officials and Labor Leaders Discuss Yesterday's Shooting in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Officials of the United Railroads and representatives of union labor in San Francisco met last night freely gave vent to their opinion as to the cause of yesterday's shooting and rioting in the city.

Patrick Calhoun issued the following statement last evening:
"The rioting today is to be deplored. Its effect abroad will be most injurious. It has been four months since a number of the former employees of the United Railroads voluntarily left its service and arrogated to themselves the right to dictate whom the United Railroads should employ and the right to prevent by violence other men from engaging in the lawful occupation of operating the street cars of this city. It is this un-American doctrine which was responsible for the riots and bloodshed today."

"There exists in this community an organization composed of twenty-five so-called labor leaders, ten from the Labor Council, ten from the Building Trades Council and five from the Carmen's Union, the avowed purpose of which is to support a boycott, both upon the business of the United Railroads and its patrons, to coerce the company to do its will. "Under the laws of this State this combination is an illegal conspiracy. Until the public sentiment of this city awakens to a condemnation of such illegal boycotts we may expect such lawless outbreaks as occurred today. The men who threw stones, demolished cars and created riot and bloodshed are the tools of this illegal conspiracy, and the real responsibility lies back of the stone-throwers."

POLICE INEFFICIENT.
"The action of the police was more inefficient than at any time since the riots of May. While individual members of the force fully performed their duties, it is a fact that a number of the policemen who were sent to the scene of the riot fraternized with the rioters and failed to make arrests."

"Again, I think the responsibility rests not alone with the police, but with those who control them. How can the plain policeman be expected to the scene of the riot fraternized with the rioters and failed to make arrests. "Again, I think the responsibility rests not alone with the police, but with those who control them. How can the plain policeman be expected to the scene of the riot fraternized with the rioters and failed to make arrests."

CORNELIUS' STATEMENT.
Richard Cornelius, president of the Street Carmen's Union, said yesterday in discussing the rioting at Sutter and Market streets that he knew so little about its origin that he did not care to say much about it.

"I saw several attempts," said Cornelius, "on the part of non-union carmen to force their cars through our parade today which I have never seen attempted before when parades have been in progress. From all that I have heard, whatever trouble has occurred has been caused by the strike-breakers trying to force their way through the line of Filmore street a car passed out of the barn and stopped in the middle of the street dividing our union. At the corner of Fell and Baker streets another crew of strike-breakers tried to force their way through our procession."

WHAT MCARTHY THINKS.
In a statement in relation to the shooting of yesterday P. H. McCarthy, president of the San Francisco Building Trades Council, said:
"It was entirely uncalled for. We arranged to have the cars keep off the streets and out of the parade's way, and they were to be all stopped before the procession started. This arrangement was carried out on Market street, but it was disregarded or forgotten on Sutter and other streets. The men running these cars would have crashed into the parade and run over the participants."

It is an absolute outrage that such conditions should obtain. It was uncalled for and without warrant of law and precedent, the manner in which these cars tried to break up the parade. All cars and transportation of any kind except that incorporated or connected with the parade ceases on all occasions of this kind. The laws of our State are quite clear on that subject and ought to be acquiesced in by all parties concerned. Failure on the part of any corporation in this regard should be attended to by the authorities to the end that it would not happen again.

"Those who have been shot and who possibly will lose their lives are the victims of foul play, the responsibility of which must rest on the shoulders of those whose indiscretions, to say the least, led them to do the things they should not."

GALLAGHER'S STATEMENT.
Regarding the rioting, President Andrew J. Gallagher of the Labor Council said:
"From what I have heard of the occurrence it is regrettable indeed. I doubt not, though, as was the case with our own parade, that the non-unionists who were running the cars were anxious to start some trouble of that kind, and it is not surprising that the true trades unionist should show his resentment."

CHINA SEEKS FUTURE RULER

PEKING, Sept. 3.—The question of the Manchurian succession, native officials assert, has today become the paramount topic of deliberation at the summer palace. One of the ablest foreign authorities says that more urgent than a constitution for China or the amalgamation of the opposing Chinese and Manchus, is the question of a heir apparent, which the Dowager Empress, the greatest of all Manchus, closely identifies with the continuance and security of the dynasty.

The question has not been raised since the time subsequent to the Dowager's deposition of Prince Chun's son, Pu Chun, in accordance with the protocol of 1901, when a majority of the imperial clan reaffirmed loyalty to Pu Chun.

This action caused a dangerous scandal and was regarded as an affront to the powers. A price was placed on Chun's head, the clan was denounced and its activity suppressed.

QUESTION SERIOUS.
The urgency of the question of the succession and the difficulty of its settlement is serious, owing to the infirmities of the Dowager Empress, due to old age, which are complicated by threats of apoplexy, and also by the condition of the Emperor, who constantly is reported to be ill. He is said to be the victim of a decline, which adds to the possibility of an accident to the throne other than that feared from anarchists and revolutionists.

In view of her own precedent of arbitrarily making Kwang-Hsu Emperor, it is believed that the Dowager Empress will declare the heir apparent independently of the wishes of the imperial clan.

DENIES CHARGE.

Charles P. Hattell denied the charge of assault with a deadly weapon this morning before Judge Melvin in relation to the rioting at Sutter and Market streets. He is charged with attempting to take the life of Joe Rogers on July 24, last. His trial was set for October 16.

THROWN FROM LOCAL TRAIN

Fights Gatekeeper and Face is Badly Battered as Result.

His face bruised and discolored so that it was hardly recognizable, as the result of being thrown from the Seventh street train by Gatekeeper H. L. Hanson, Jack Brown appeared in the police court this morning to answer a charge of battery preferred by the gatekeeper.

Brown, in company with a man named Jack Austin, boarded the train at the Broadway station and fell into a dispute almost immediately with the gatekeeper in regard to tickets. It is alleged that Brown struck Hanson first and a fight followed, which wound up at the Market street station, when Brown was forcibly ejected from the train by Gatekeeper Hanson, assisted by Detective Quilly.

Brown landed on his face with such violence that several teeth were knocked out, and his features were out and scarred.
Special Officer Baldwin took Brown to the city prison, where he was booked on a charge of battery.
In the police court this morning the case was postponed until tomorrow to admit the filing of a complaint.

5 YEARS FOR EMBEZZLER

Joseph M. Smith, a young bank collector, was sentenced by Judge Melvin this morning to serve five years in the penitentiary at San Quentin for felony embezzlement through the charge brought against him by the First National Bank where he formerly worked and stole $405.30. He confessed to the theft. District Attorney Brown says that he has evidence where he got away with nearly $4,500 of the bank's funds, which the prosecuting attorney says was played off on the bank.

Smith pleaded guilty and asked for immediate sentence. Attorney J. J. McDonald pleaded for leniency in behalf of the young man, saying that he had erred and after a short term in prison would reform his ways. Brown told the court that Smith's embezzlement had covered a long period of time and he had worked a system by which he obtained over $4,000.

SMITH IS COOL.
Smith took his sentence coolly and had no comment to make on the punishment inflicted by the court.

In a long signed statement concerning his career at the bank Smith says in part:
"About the first of February, 1907, I was placed in charge of the Collection Department, where the shortages were made possible. They commenced about the 15th of March. There is no excuse or explanation except the old story of getting a little short and speculating to get even."

KEEP FROM WHISKY IS COURT'S WARNING

"I am going to let you go this time, John, if you will keep away from whisky," said Judge Melvin this morning in relation to John P. Lavin from custody after he had been in the county jail for the past thirteen months on the charge of stealing $5 worth of clothing and a valise from A. Rizoli on August 5, 1905.

"If whisky had not been invented, he never would have been in jail," was the comment the court made when District Attorney Brown said that Lavin had been a very good man in jail and had been a great aid to the prosecuting attorney. In the jail he was one of the trustees, where he took care of the "grand jury" corridor.

LANE COMING TO LOOK UP WESTERN R. R. CONDITIONS

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Will Investigate Car Shortages and Other Matters.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—A special to the Record-Herald from Washington says: Interstate Commerce Commissioner Franklin K. Lane will leave Washington tomorrow for a protracted tour of the West, which is likely to bear very important results. In addition to looking into the matter of how thoroughly certain railroad systems have been living up to the anti-rebate provisions of the rate law, Lane will devote particular attention to the car shortage situation with a view to preventing a recurrence of the deplorable conditions that existed last winter. The Commissioner undoubtedly will use his influence to the Western country and prevent, if possible, agitation to force more drastic legislation than already has been enacted. Lane will reach Chicago Wednesday afternoon and will spend Thursday in the latter city discussing conditions with general officers of some of the lines centering there.

TALK WITH HILL.
He will then go to St. Paul for a conference with officers of the Northern Pacific and Great Northern roads intended to talk personally with James J. Hill, if the latter be at home. From St. Paul he will go to Spokane, Seattle and Portland.

Thence to the Pacific Coast, looking minutely into affairs embracing the Harbors of the Union and Southern Pacific. The whole trip will consume five or six weeks, the car shortage situation affecting cotton and lumber in the South being looked into on the return journey.

Agents of the Interstate Commerce Commission quietly have been investigating the observance of the new law provisions by the railroads of the Far West and Commissioner Lane will meet them and get their reports.

WOMEN SPEAK FOR MITCHELL WOULD HURRY PAST NUISANCE

Mrs. A. L. Astor, a woman doctor, strengthened the alibi for the defense of Attorney David Mitchell today by declaring that she had been in his Broadway office on November 17, 1905, from the hours of 2 to 5 o'clock and that nobody had called. It was during this time that Evelyn Walker and Berwick Brown, now Mrs. Flynn, said they were in the office and that the Walker girl had submitted to an alleged attack. Mrs. Astor consulted her diary and found where she had entered a note for the day to account for the time she spent that afternoon.

Mrs. A. Glend was also a caller at the office on that day during the early afternoon. She said that the two girls came into the office and knocked at Mitchell's private office door. He opened it and said, "No, no." By this the girls turned away, according to Mrs. Glend, and declared they would "kill him." Mrs. Glend said that the girls were in line arrest, that their skirts extended to their shoe tops.

OAKLAND MAIL CLERK

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Joseph A. Burman, who was arrested in Boston on a charge of stealing from the Oakland mails while employed as clerk in the post office appeared before United States Commissioner Hancock today. He was arraigned and held to answer before the district court with this morning. Bail fixed at $500.

WALKS FROM PRISON CELL

Chinese Murder Suspect Released on Request of S. F. Police.

Chief of Police Wilson this morning received a telephone message from the San Francisco police withdrawing the request which they made yesterday for the detention of Gee Yuck, a member of the Bing Kong Tong, who has been held on suspicion that he was implicated in the murder of So Ho Yick Wah in San Francisco on Saturday morning. The San Francisco officers announce that they have fixed the responsibility for Wah's death on another Chinese, and accordingly Gee Yuck was released.

THINKS SPITE.
It is now believed that Gee Yuck's arrest was accomplished through spite work on the part of Ah Bing and Sun Yee, two Hop Sing men, who were arrested for complicity in the shooting of Lee Tong in Oakland's Chinatown shortly after midnight on Saturday. The men were captured on information furnished by Gee Yuck, and they immediately retaliated by accusing him of committing the murder in San Francisco.

Lee Tong has identified both Ah Bing and Sun Yee as members of the party that attacked him and he fastens the blame for the shooting on Ah Bing.

Surgeons at the Providence hospital say that the lower part of Lee Tong's back is paralyzed from the effect of the wound which he received during the Oakland shooting affray, and that his chance for recovery is small.

HIS LEGS AND ARM SEVERED

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 3.—Harold Atchison of 346 Fifth street was run over by a freight engine at Fourth and Townsend streets at 11 o'clock this morning and received injuries which resulted in his death at 1 o'clock at the Central Emergency Hospital.

Atchison was crossing the tracks and failed to notice the engine which was backing on a siding and he was knocked down and run over. Both legs and his left arm were cut off. He was taken to the Southern Pacific Hospital and later removed to the Central Emergency Hospital, but the shock was so great that he was unable to rally and died at 1 o'clock.

Labor Day's Industrial Parade.

From every point of view the great Labor Day parade along Oakland's principal streets yesterday was the most notable industrial demonstration which has ever been witnessed in this State. It was the largest, best organized and most orderly procession which has ever before wended its way through our streets. It started on time, which is something so unusual in demonstrations of this character as to be entitled to special mention, and the formation of the long line proceeded without the slightest hitch and with military precision. The credit for this is, of course, due to the excellent management of the procession by the grand marshal and his aides.

The day was an ideal one, which is usually the case in Oakland on all public holidays at which similar demonstrations are made. The streets included in the route were in good condition and the police arrangements were perfect. But the crowds of spectators which occupied the sidewalks all along the line of march were so orderly and good natured that the services of the police were at no time needed. Oakland is fortunate in the enjoyment of an era of perfect industrial peace. The procession was, indeed, the grandest army of organized labor ever before assembled together on the Pacific Coast.

The various labor unions represented in the parade vied with one another in the production of the best results. The floats were more numerous than in any former parade and exemplified excellently the numerous industries which they represented and which are now numbered among Oakland's most valuable assets.

In this respect the parade was a splendid display of the industries which are located permanently in this city; and when it is considered that the procession was nearly three hours in passing any given point along the route, and that the halts were few and brief on the way from start to finish, it afforded an opportunity to fairly comprehend the marvelous growth which the city has made of late and the great accessions that have been made to its skilled industrial population. To the student of municipal development this was in reality the most suggestive and important feature in the big parade. It was corroborative and indisputable evidence of Oakland's recent extraordinary expansion and its present progressiveness, and an assurance of its continued progress and prosperity.

The Eastern press is hammering away at the cost of the retention of the Philippines to the United States and advocating their sale. It is the old story, namely, an uncontrollable jealousy of everything that contributes to the commercial development of the Pacific Coast. Why should not the East focus its vision a short while on the cost to the United States of the protectorate which has been placed over Cuba and which is draining the national treasury at a rate of nearly $3,000,000 a year, without any visible returns for the philanthropic investment? The Philippines may not be directly profitable, but they are serving, temporarily at least, as a gateway to the rich commerce of the Orient and might serve a still more profitable purpose if they were declared to be domestic territory for commercial reasons. But that might prove, of course, destructive to the monopolies of the sugar and tobacco trusts which are so largely interested in our relations with Cuba being maintained and so uncompromisingly opposed to letting down the bars shutting out the trade in Philippine competitive products.

Pacific Cruise of Battleship Fleet.

Eastern papers continue unavailingly to throw cold water on the government's program to send the battleship fleet on a voyage through the strait of Magellan into the Pacific. All kinds of doubts are being industriously raised to discourage the cruise. But the purpose of the opposition is well known and will be ineffective. Lack of coaling stations and dockage facilities for repairing the big warships on the Pacific Coast have been advanced without effect as a reason why the cruise should be abandoned, for it is now acknowledged that this objection is without merit. The latest objection raised is the cost of the voyage, but that will meet with no better success than the other objections which have been raised, for the reason that it will be just as expensive to keep the fleet in commission on the Atlantic Coast as it will be to keep them moving at sea. The fact is being overlooked that the test of the endurance of the fleet in time of peace, which the long voyage will furnish and which the short cruises on the Atlantic seaboard obviously fail to give, will be worth the money. The objections which the Eastern newspapers are raising fail to obscure their real purpose, namely, the selfish desire to retain the fleet's trade for supplies of which the Atlantic seaboard has had an unbroken monopoly up to the present time, although it must be apparent to every impartial citizen that the greatest usefulness of the American navy henceforth must be centered in Pacific waters where the international struggle for commercial supremacy is becoming every day more acute. The national administration is alive to the situation.

Berkeley is having trouble with the milk dealers and taking steps to correct it by local legislation. Oakland offers a good field for a similar reform, as the difference between the milk served to most consumers and skimmed milk is not discernible.

Wellman's Polar Expedition.

The frequent postponements of Wellman's promised flight in his dirigible airship for a dash to the North Pole are exciting scepticism as to the sincerity of his professions. He has had all of the Arctic summer to carry out his plans; his airship is in good condition to start, and yet no attempt to make the flight has been made, the excuse being that the wind has been unfavorable. This casts a doubt upon the dirigibility of his airship, for it cannot be dirigible if it is incapable of working its way against a headwind, or it suggests that Wellman's expedition is a fake. There is less than two weeks of the Arctic midnight sun's light left in which to carry out the purpose of the expedition, and if Wellman fails to start during that period the attempt to make the "dash to the pole" will have to be given up again this year as a hopeless job, for no man is foolhardy enough to venture on an aerial flight in the dark through an unknown region subject to obscurity by sudden fogs, with only a balloon of uncertain durability to carry him, whose dirigibility has not been proved. The fate of Andre and his companions is yet fresh in the minds of all Arctic aerial explorers, and the mystery of their fate remains among the unsolved tragedies of the Far North, but they started on their fatal voyage in quest of the polar spot so far unseen by human eyes with a strong, fair wind speeding them on their way in the largest and best equipped balloon ever built.

Now Chicago is agitating the question of substituting electric for steam power on all of the railroads entering the city, as one of the means of suppressing the smoke nuisance with which it is afflicted.

THE MAGNATE'S OUTING

"Mr. Harriman has spent two weeks in the wilds of California in search of sport."—News item.

The Pacific Coast for Roosevelt.

A Washington dispatch says the President is receiving alarming advices from all parts of the country regarding the unpopularity of himself and Secretary Taft. Among other things it is stated that Secretary Metcalf has reported that the thirty-eight votes of the Pacific Coast can only be held in line for Roosevelt by the utmost exertions.

If the statements regarding other sections are no nearer the truth than this silly falsehood about sentiment on the Pacific Coast, they are the precise reverse of the facts. In every State and Territory of the extreme West, public sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of a third term for the President. Every vote here will be offered to him without the asking. If he should accept the nomination again, the election in this section of the Union would be a mere matter of form—there would hardly be the show of opposition.

Next to Roosevelt the most popular candidate for the Presidency is Secretary Taft. He is admired for his force, ability and executive talent; also for his strength of character and for his sturdy sense of justice. But his highest claim to popular favor at this time is that he is the logical successor to Theodore Roosevelt. He is in entire sympathy with the progressive policies of the President, is committed to them and to the various administration reforms Roosevelt has urged with such signal success. Moreover, the Secretary of War has an attractive personality, and has displayed a high quality of statesmanship. His judicial temper and conservative method make him a safe man, worthy of all confidence and respect.

If public opinion in other States is in harmony with the sentiment of the Pacific Coast, President Roosevelt can have a third term by merely signifying he will accept the nomination. If not, the nomination and election of William H. Taft appear a certainty.

How reporters sometimes make mistakes was illustrated not long ago when Helicon Hall, Upton Sinclair's Utopian colony, burned down, says the August Lippincott's. Among the injured was Miss Grace MacGowan Cooke, the well-known author. A reporter on one of the New York dailies, eager to get his story in the first edition, wrote hurriedly that "Grace MacGowan, the cook, suffered from serious burns." And this reminds us of a typographical error in one of Eliza Wheeler Wilcox's poems. The author had written for a newspaper a sonnet containing this line: "My soul is a light-house keeper." To her amazement, the line read in print: "My soul is a light-housekeeper."

Plucky Woman Scalds Wild Cat, Thus Helping Dogs to Kill the Animal

PORT JERVIS, N. Y. Sept. 3.—Mrs. Robert Winters was busy making bread yesterday afternoon at her home near Grady, Pa., when the dogs began barking savagely. She was about to investigate the cause of their excitement when a wildcat bounded into the kitchen door, followed by two dogs.

The wildcat sprang at Mrs. Winters, but she dodged it and grabbing a kettle of hot water from the stove dashed it over the animal when it sprang at her a second time.

Screaming with rage and pain the wildcat turned on the dogs and fought them furiously but blinded as it was by the scalding water and suffering agony, it was no match for them and was soon killed.

As she had no badge, the policeman didn't believe her story that she had been working on the Klippenburg case, which recently engrossed the attention of the Ellis Island officials.

The magistrate lectured her on what he termed her "silly antics" and she

Seen in a Dream Unites Two Long Lost Sisters Again

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 3.—Two sisters separated ten years ago, have been brought together a dream playing a queer part in the reunion. In 1897 L. S. Higbee of Ancona, adopted an eight-year-old girl, named Pearl Shears, securing the child from a Chicago foundling asylum and reared her as his own. She plied for a sister from whom she was separated, and her foster father made every effort to locate her inserting advertisements in the newspapers and making numerous inquiries.

Mr. Higbee Mrs. Higbee and the adopted daughter now aged eighteen planned a shopping tour to Chicago. The night before the trip was made the girl dreamed that she found her long lost sister in Chicago, but her only recollection otherwise was the number 79. The family reached Chicago at 9 a. m. and leaving the Polk street station walked along Dearborn street in the direction of the shopping district.

MEETS SISTER
Suddenly a young woman jumped from a doorway exclaiming "Pearl Shears! I have been looking for you for years." It soon developed that the woman was the long lost sister of Pearl, now married. Mr. Higbee glanced at the number of the door from which the sister emerged and was staggered to note that it was 79 as told in his adopted daughter's dream.

The story told by the sister was even more remarkable. She said that she had dreamed for three consecutive nights that if she should go to No. 79 Dearborn street that she would find her sister. So vivid was

American Woman Made Countess by Pope Does Not Use Her Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The news recently made public that Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan, wife of the big trolley magnate had been made a countess is favorably commented upon here. It is also pleasing to her many friends that she has not availed herself of the privilege of using her title.

The advice reported a rumor in certain Vatican circles that in all likelihood

Mrs. Thomas F. Ryan Has Expended More Than $5,000,000 in Charities. For This Her Church Has Thus Honored Her

hood Thomas F. Ryan would be made a noble of the Holy Roman Church before the end of the year.

Pope Pius X., in December last, bestowed the title of Countess on the wife of the American gas tobacco and street-railway magnate in recognition of her charities and benefactions to the church.

The bestowal of title on Mrs. Ryan has been long expected by those familiar with church affairs. But it is not the first favor she has received from the Vatican. Pope Leo XIII. granted her the dispensation of having a traveling chapel. This is installed in her private car the Pere Marquette and is the only one of its kind in this country. The only other in the world belongs to the Queen Dowager of Spain.

It is said Mrs. Ryan gives away $1,000,000 a year in charities. Her gifts to the church alone in the past four or five years are estimated at more than $5,000,000.

Like her husband Mrs. Ryan is a native of Virginia. Her great great great grandmother was a first cousin of Mary Ball mother of George Washington. John Smith Barry was her father. He was a son of Robert Barry whose cousin was Commodore Barry, father of the American Navy.

She refused to say how long she had been wearing trousers but volunteered that she had a son of eighteen living somewhere in New Jersey. She received an income she said from a trust fund established by her father in San Francisco.

Prima Donna Will Educate Clergyman's Girl To Become a Singer—Has Marvelous Voice

WINONA LAKE, Ind., Sept. 3.—While at Winona Lake Mrs. Schumann-Heink had Miss Bertha Chapman, daughter of the Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman formerly of Philadelphia, sing for her and is so delighted with the girl's voice that she will take her to Europe.

Mrs. Schumann-Heink will return to Winona Lake early in June next year for two recitals, and will then go direct to Germany. On this trip she expects to take Miss Chapman and as Mrs. Schumann-Heink is a personal friend of Mrs. Wagner every opportunity will be given Miss Chapman Mrs. Schumann-Heink herself intends giving Miss Chapman lessons.

Miss Chapman has a mezzo-soprano voice very sweet but not strong. Mrs. Schumann-Heink thinks Miss Chapman will excel in oratorios. Miss Chapman's father at one time was pastor of Bethany Presbyterian Church Philadelphia. He is a widely known evangelist.

... HOME OR A CAREER ...

$20---FOR THE BEST ANSWER---$20

Profession and Career Is Man's Exclusively

Home by all means is the place for a woman. Profession and career pertain to man.

There is no joy compared to that of a true and loving mother, and where can be found a happier woman than a loving and a beloved wife? Surely not among those who live for a career.

Of course a woman should have all the education she can get and be accomplished to such an extent that in case she is deprived of her husband and left without means, she could make a living.

Mr. Higbee returned to his home in Ancona the same day but Pearl remained to pay an extended visit with her strangely found sister.

Who Do You Think Is Right?

Here is a chance for the women readers of the woman's page of THE TRIBUNE.

Charles M. Schwab, the millionaire steel man, says that the sphere of a woman begins at home.

Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, society leader and brilliant leader of fashion, says the sphere of a woman is where she chooses to make it.

Mr. Schwab says that marriage is always the goal of woman, and Mrs. Fish says marriage is a minor consideration to a career.

Homekeeping Is Career Equal to Profession

A loving wife and mother, and a successful homekeeper is, in my opinion, working out a career as truly as a woman who may have M. D., attorney or any other affix or prefix, to her name.

Funny Things Some Women Buy When They Are Abroad

One of the funny things about women traveling abroad is the sort of things they bring back with them as souvenirs. ## SAYS SHE WAS AWAKENED AT NIGHT BY HER HUSBAND WHO SAID: 'I DON'T LOVE YOU'

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The much-maligned mother-in-law is the recipient of another large legacy of accusations in the answer filed in the Supreme Court by Louis Flax of 531 Eleventh avenue to separation proceedings instituted by his wife. The suit comes as a sequel to three months of wedded life.

In her affidavit, Mrs. Sadie Flax told the wife says that for three days following the wedding she was as happy as could be.

After that time her husband began to tire of her she asserts and often told her he wished she were dead or out of the way. From insults, at first he soon resorted to physical violence. He locked her out of the house on many occasions forcing her to go to her mother's house for sleep and at times for food.

Whenever her mother paid her a visit which Flax asserts was at least seven times a week she would be told "to chase the old woman out" as he was boss of that house, and as his wife didn't bring any dowry with her she could have nothing to say in the management of the home.

Often, declared Mrs. Flax, she would be awakened in the wee small hours of the morning by her husband to be told that he was tired of her and wished she would lose herself somewhere.

In her answer Mrs. Flax declares that she never had a minute's respite from her mother-in-law. She was always on hand with instructions as to what he should or should not do. Finally he became tired and ordered her out of the house, with instructions to stay out.

Mrs. Flax asks for alimony and counsel fees.

Clever Way Girl Brought Laces in Without Any Duty

A young woman just returned from abroad who purchased some very valuable lace on the other side on which she didn't want to pay duty conceived the idea of making the lace into a guimpe to wear with a jumper costume, which was a simple summer suit. So she very laboriously made an entire shirt waist of the lace. She filled in the V at the neck with net, thereby obviating the necessity of cutting the piece. Then the sleeves, made on a body of net, were ruffled and befringed with row on row of the precious lace and if the custom house officer thought it a somewhat expensive guimpe to wear with such a simple costume he didn't say so, evidently supposing it to be a new Paris mode. That young woman cost precisely $700. The young woman is now utilizing the lace in a wedding gown in which she is to figure at one of the fall weddings. She thinks that "a girl's fair in love and war," evidently being of the opinion that paying duty comes under the head of war.

MOTHER-IN-LAW

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—From the summit of happiness William Dempsey has been hurled to the depth of woe. Mrs. Macabe, whom Dempsey made his mother-in-law without saying even "good-bye," robbed him of his bride and daughter, and plunged him in despair.

"Sweet to the sweet," said Dempsey, who works in a candy store, and he courted pretty Florence Macabe so fervently that he won her from her admirers. They were married by the Rev. Mr. Kolpehen at his home, 41 West Forty-third street at "high noon." After a brief honeymoon trip to Fort George, Mr. and Mrs. Dempsey returned to his home with young Mr. and Mrs. Wochschlager, 510 Tenth avenue. When the Wochschlagers were married recently the then Miss Florence Macabe and Dempsey stood up with them, and they returned the delicate compliment yesterday. The wedding feast was spread and the four were greatly enjoying it when Mrs. Macabe entered with fire in her eye

Flower Faking.

The gentle art of "faking" flowers is flourishing exceedingly, and one may purchase at many of the florists' shops now green carnations and lilies of the valley. White flowers readily absorb the dye, and so perfectly natural are the green tints that only an expert well versed in the natural colors of flowers could possibly detect the deception.

The flowers are cut just before they are fully developed, and their stalks are then placed in a solution of aniline dye. Flowers so treated readily absorb the solution, and pass it upward into the cells of the petals, thus converting the neutral white surface into a green tint.

Scarlet and green shades of color seem so far to be the most popular but other tints are produced in the same way.

Tears Bride From Husband and Takes Her Back to Dolls

Police Told the Bridegroom They Would Stop a Murderer, Catch an Armed Man or Be Desperate, But They Would Not Face Angry Mother-in-Law

"You're a kidnaper, an abductor, a child stealer," she said to Dempsey with fierce scorn, "how dare you marry my daughter without my permission? Don't you know Florence isn't 18 yet?"

"Why woman," expostulated Mrs. Dempsey, "I was 18 months ago."

ANGRY MOTHER-IN-LAW.

"Have I lived to see the day when my own daughter tells me how old she is," exclaimed Mrs. Macabe. "You are a child, a minor, your marriage is illegal. Come and play with your dolls," and she seized Mrs. Dempsey's wrist and led her to the door.

"Just a word of warning to you, Dempsey. If you come around trying to get her again somebody'll get shot."

The despairing bridegroom hurried to the West Forty-seventh street station and asked the police to restore his bride to him.

First Wife Wants Husband To Look Nice So She Paid For His Clothes and Then He Looked So Nice That Another Woman Fell in Love With Him

PITTSBURG, Sept. 3.—There was much suppressed excitement at the First Presbyterian Church today when the members of the congregation for the first time learned of the marriage of the Rev. Dr. R. A. Bolce, the former assistant pastor, to Miss Sarah K. Williams, formerly a contralto singer in the choir.

One of the members said that the Rev. Dr. Alexander, the minister, had forced the Rev. Bolce to retire from the ministry and resign his work in the church when he learned that the first Mrs. Bolce, nee Nellie Armstrong, of Allegheny, had quitted her position to the contralto and secured a divorce.

Mrs. Bolce No. 1, who is living in Allegheny, speaking of her husband's marriage to Miss Williams, which took place August 3 in New York, said:

FIRST WIFE SAYS.
"It does not concern me whether he is married again, or to whom he is married. I expected he would have married Miss Williams before this. When I discovered the attachment existing between my husband and Miss Williams I immediately left my home, taking my children with me. Miss Williams was solicitous at all times about the health of my children and was very much opposed to it, but finally agreed. We got along pretty well, for I had some money in the bank, and that got us food and clothes. He wanted to dress well, and I wanted him to look well, and I paid for his clothing."

A charming berth can be made of plunked "chiffon" bordered with

This Girl Climbed a Tree In Her Bathing Suit To

WAYNE, N. J. Sept. 3.—Ruth Adams, a pretty schoolgirl, shocked staid farmers' wives who were on the way to church by climbing a tree to rescue a Maltess kitten. But the farmers and their sons enthusiastically applauded Miss Ruth who is sixteen years old and in watching her mercurial deed they forgot all about religious services. For it is not every day that a girl "goes fishing" for a kitten. The kitten is the pet of small Ida Van Ness. A dog chased it from the Van Ness porch Saturday evening and it ran up a tree in front of the house. It could not be coaxed down.

Several small boys successfully climbed the tree, but their approach drove the kitten higher up, and out on a slender branch. There it mewed pitifully all night, while little Miss Van Ness fell asleep weeping for her pet.

More boys vainly tried to reach the kitten Sunday morning. To watch them automobiles and persons driving and walking halted until the road was blocked. Little Ida was heartbroken.

Miss Adams determined to restore the kitten to the child.

The resourceful girl put on the bathing suit she wore at Asbury Park, and tied a noose of strong string to her brother's fishing rod. When she appeared in the yard, the crowd upon pussy-up-the-tree cheered her. The agile girl ascended a short ladder to the lower branches, then climbed on the rod in one hand.

Finally she reached the limb on which the kitten crouched, still meowing. Climbing out on the limb as far as it was safe, she made ready to "catch" the Maltess in the noose. Cautiously she thrust out the noose towards the kitten, which, however, backed out so far the branch awayed under its weight. But after many patient efforts the girl got the noose around pussy's neck and drew the kitten to her. Then she released the kitten, putting her belt, carried it down, restored it to smiling grateful Ida, and ran home, while the crowd except the staid old ladies, applauded.

For afternoon gowns the "dainty" checked voiles in two-toned effects are exceptionally attractive when fashioned with a garniture of silk which gives them body.

WOMAN TIES UP COURT BY RAISING A PRECEDENT

Can an Officer Serve a Summons On an Unborn Child? That's It; Illinois Judge Is Badly Tangled

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 3.—Can a county officer serve a summons upon an unborn child? This freak complication is before Judge L. O. Eagleton, of the Pecoria County Probate Court, and he is wrestling with the problem before filing a decision.

The unusual situation came up in the settlement of the estate of Samuel K. Witherell. When he died he left a widow and several children, one of the latter being unborn. In settling up the estate the administrator gave the papers to the sheriff to serve. He fulfilled his duty properly as he supposed by leaving the summons with the widow. The guardian of the children protested against the settlement of the estate upon the ground that summons could not be legally taken upon the unborn child, and that action must wait until the child is born. As the unborn child will have the same interest in the estate as the others, the court will probably hold that the summons was illegal and hold the settlement of the estate until the child is born. It is said that the complication has no precedent.

Mother Was Not Meant When He Grew Theoretical

Mrs. Osler, the mother of Dr. Osler, the physician to whom was attributed the statement about chloroforming the elderly, has just celebrated her 100th birthday. She has reared four sons, all of whom have made their mark in the world, and one daughter. She has twenty-six grandchildren and one great-grandchild. She still attends to her household duties and leads an active and useful life.

KETCHEL WINS FIERCE FIGHT WITH THOMAS

MONTANA WONDER DEFEATS CALIFORNIAN IN THE GREATEST ENCOUNTER OF FISTIANA

GREAT BRAWN IS WINNER OVER NATIVE FIGHTS A COOL, CAREFUL BATTLE

By EDDIE SMITH.

When a large black pigeon flew across the ring from north to south and landed on the southern fence facing the crowd it was suggested that the bird would prove an ill omen to Joe Thomas, the champion welterweight of the world. The bird may have been the forerunner of disaster to the champion, but the real cause of his defeat is the fact that he was up against a better man at every stage of the game except as to show cleverness. Stanley Ketchel, the victor in yesterday's grueling thirty-two rounds of mulling, will now command the recognition of all the better fighters of the day and with one bound he has come from obscurity and landed in the front ranks of the welterweight division. Ketchel claims he can still make the welter weight limit and for that reason he will be pronounced the best in that class.

At the close of the contest the spectators, in passing out, each and every one announced that the fight had been the best they had ever seen. On all sides were praises for the victor and sympathy for the vanquished. The contest was such a good one that one is almost at a loss to know what to say to describe it.

EVERY ROUND A FEATURE.

In most fights some feature of the contest stands out in such bold relief that the writer has an opportunity to tell the story around that feature. The Thomas-Ketchel contest yesterday was different in that it lasted thirty-two rounds with each and every round a feature. Ketchel, handed by that toll in the mines of Montana and with the quickness of a panther and the coolness of an experienced warrior, practically out-fought the champion from start to finish. The Montana champion at the out-set of the battle appeared slightly drawn and nervous, but the clang of the gong seemed to have a stimulating effect and at no time, with the exception of the twenty-seventh round, was he in danger of being put out. In this round Thomas, who seemed determined to take advantage of renewed strength, gained after a rest for a few rounds, made a heroic stand and during a fast exchange of punches in the center of the ring he landed a right and left to Ketchel's jaw and the northern boy went sprawling to the floor. The Montana lad raised himself to a sitting position and very coolly waited for the count. It might be well to mention here that Ketchel came near being counted out through his own mistake. He sat facing the referee with his back to the timekeeper, who was doing the counting. Referee Roche, noticing that the fighter was paying little attention to the count, pointed to Ketchel and as Ketchel turned and noticed that he was being counted out he got up in time. As soon as he had regained his feet, with extreme precision, tried to land another telling blow. Roche broke the men apart and started them at each other again. Ketchel, in the meanwhile, regained his strength and getting his head clear, landed the champion as if he was fresh, and although the champion landed several times on his body and head, he seemed unable to again put the Montana boy down. Ketchel, at the end of the round, was trying with his left and right fists with such viciousness that the California boy seemed bewildered. When the bell rang he ran to his corner and, if anything, the fresher of the two fighters.

OLD TIMERS MARVEL.

From that time on Ketchel made persistent broadsides on the champion's strength and at no time after that was he in danger of losing. The battle was anybody's fight up to the very time that he landed the terrific right to the body and the left to the head that put the California lad down. The battle was saved for Thomas several times during the long route by class alone. The native boy showed so well that it was thought his class would win for him. He was cool at all times and when in distress he showed a work was marvelous even to the old timers at the ringside who have been watching champions fight since the days of Jim Mac.

These old-timers, who through years of watching boxing contests have become hardened and accustomed to the surprises of the ring, and who never raise their voice during a contest, were on their feet during this contest shouting words of advice and cheering as if mad. To my right was a young man who has been watching fights since no one knows when. He was so nervous that he could hardly keep a pencil in his hand, and as the contest got breath toward the twentieth round, and he

THOMAS IS PUZZLED.

The one thing that puzzled the champion was the same thing that caused him to get his guard at Marysville. Ketchel has a knack of boxing with an opponent using a left lead to the body as a feeler and then with quickness that startles an opponent he will open up with swings for the head and body with left and right that carry a knockout in each punch. Ketchel proved himself one of the marvels of the present day fighters, and as clear-cut work yesterday will live in the memory of the fight for years. To try and describe the contest round by round would indeed be tiresome and monotonous, the thirty-two rounds being of such a character that a description of them would be like a coat without any sleeves.

When the men were called to the center of the ring by the referee, Ketchel wanted it understood what would be done in case a foul was committed. The fighters and referee wrangled for several minutes over how the foul should be determined, and the final agreement was to the effect that if such an incident occurred, the referee should determine whether or not the principal was able to continue. Thomas, who was full of confidence at the start of the battle, walked to his corner and to his second, said, in reply to the question about the wrangle in the center, that Ketchel was already looking for a chance to win on a foul.

When the argument had been settled and the men had stopped to the center of the ring and sparred very carefully, each being content with a chance to get a line on the other fellow's plan of battle. Ketchel was the first to land. He landed with the left several times and shot in three in quick succession, bringing a slight shade of red to the lips of the champion. Ketchel, who is naturally left handed, used the left hand to the advantage. While Thomas stepped around the ring to keep his opponent from setting himself for a hard punch, Thomas used a straight left to the head and a right to the body. Thomas displayed the most class however, and owing to the clever, cool way he has of avoiding punches his work brought forth the approval of the crowd that had made him ten to six favorite. Ketchel in this round started the left lead going for the body, which he used all during the contest. The punch does not carry much, but it is a feeler for an opening, but the persistence with which he keeps pumping it into the stomach must in time tell, and it was this punch, perhaps, that helped to finally put the Californian down.

THOMAS OPENED UP A BIT IN THE SECOND ROUND, AND THE MEN HAD A LIVELY EXCHANGE OF PUNCHES.

This exchange started the ball rolling, for from that time on the fighters never ceased rolling. First Thomas would take the lead and then Ketchel, with each man resting up in turn when tired.

"Spider" Kelly with Thomas. "Spider" Kelly, who has been announced as one of the seconds for Ketchel, went to the corner of Thomas at the end of the second and advised the champion to take his time and use no push, but his left hand kept him right close to block the vicious swings that Ketchel hurled at him. "Molly" McDonald, the famous trainer, went to the corner of Ketchel a few rounds later and advised him to keep his head and his arms and help of an experienced man, as he was handicapped in experience, and his seconds, while all men of fair ability, were not the ones to nurse a man through such a grueling contest.

THOMAS TO THE ROPE, WHERE HE SHOT HIS RIGHT OVER THE HEAD AND PUT THE CHAMPION DOWN FOR THE COUNT.

Thomas got up and with coolness and cleverness seldom seen in a ring weathered the storm of punches that Ketchel stormed him with. At the end of the round Thomas was again strong and fighting hard. From that time on, with the exception of the twenty-seventh round, the fight was one that any man might win.

KETCHEL GOES TO THE MAT.

In this round the champion put the fast-moving Ketchel down for the count and it looked as if the battle was over. Thomas, in his effort to finish the fight, fought himself out and from that time on he was slowly weakening. The battle was one in which first the supporters of Thomas would feel that he was winning and then the Ketchel backers would think their man was winning. The end came rather unexpectedly, although each round was expected to be the last.

In the thirty-second Ketchel came up strong, considering the pace that he had traveled, while the champion was up a little tired. Ketchel was the first to lead. He shot over his left hook for the head, which staggered Thomas. Joe tried to out-box the Montana boy, but his efforts were in vain for the right of victory had slipped from his grasp. He was after his weakened opponent with terrible force. Ketchel landed with a right to the body and followed quickly as Thomas bent forward and put the champion down. Thomas gamely forced himself to his feet only to be knocked down again and it was apparent that the fight was over. Some of the spectators cried to the referee to stop the contest while Ketchel sprang after him and again knocked him to the floor. Harry Foley, realizing that the fight was over, rushed into the ring, throwing up the sponge as a signal of defeat, while the crowd, with play for the fallen hero, mildly cheered the victor. The fight over, Ketchel rushed across the ring and shaking hands with the champion who had fallen and exalted by the victory, ran from the ring. No matter which of the fighters had won that contest there would have been little cheering for him, as the spectators through the long, hard battle had endeared each of the men to his heart, and if fate had ended the contest in a draw the crowd would have felt that neither man had been wronged by being out-luck.

The battle of yesterday will go down in ring history as one of, if not the greatest that ever took place in California.

The contestants were trained to the hour and each entered the ring in apparently fine condition. Thomas was the cleverer of the two, while Ketchel had the greater strength and punching power.

Referee Billy Roche handled the contest to the satisfaction of the crowd and his work was that of a man of experience. Thomas was the worst beaten of the two men although neither of the men were beaten in the contest. The men had some such a distance at the terrific pace that was maintained throughout the contest.

Betting Brisk On the Battle

Ringside betting closed at 10 to 7, with plenty of Ketchel money in sight. Early in the forenoon the betting was 10 to 7. Then it dropped to 10 to 6, but as the shortened coin was mostly in evidence it caused the betting to go to the original price. The crowd, looking through the crowd asking for Thomas money, but could not find it.

The Seals took both of yesterday's games from the Beavers and didn't have any trouble doing it. Either. The morning affair was a 9-6 parade, while the afternoon exhibition went down into history as an 8-1 slaughter. Just a couple of Labor Day barbeques that was all.

The Seals got six of their nine tallies at the morning game in the first inning, causing the retirement of Groom almost before the affair was under way. In the afternoon the trouble came a little later, and having been delayed, was more effective. Heavy stick work was responsible.

The first run was scored in the opening inning. Spencer singled and so did Wheeler. Irwin walked and filled the bases. Then McCredie and Mott each hammered out a two-bagger, but "Handspring" Oscar put the brakes on; that was all the Beavers did during the afternoon.

An even quartet was annexed in the third period. Hildebrand and Spencer walked and moved along on Wheeler's sacrifice. Irwin's single scored Hildebrand and McCredie's long three-bagger brought in Spencer and Irwin. Williams' fly-out and the attendant throw in enabled Melchior to register.

In the next inning it looked for a minute or two as though the northern had Jones out the run, but McCredie and Mott each hammered out a two-bagger, but "Handspring" Oscar put the brakes on; that was all the Beavers did during the afternoon.

Four hits netted three more tallies for the Seals in the sixth stanza. Wheeler singled, Irwin followed suit and Melchior went them both one better by ripping off a two-cushion boy. George rode home on it. Williams listlessly fanned and then Street shouted a dashing single and which brought in both Melchior and Irwin.

Melchior's discovery of his mislead batting eye was the feature of the day. The scores:

'I'm a Welterweight'—Young Ketchel

I have proved to the sporting public that I am the best welterweight in the world today. I have been called a class and I will not fight any of the middleweights at the present time. I am a welter and I claim the title in that class. When I entered the ring today I was no weigh over 145 pounds. I have been fighting all classes of men from the lightweight to middleweight, but now I am going to draw the line and stick in the welterweight class.

Outside of this fight today, the hardest battle I ever had in my life was when I fought Maurice Thompson as a lightweight. I was then 135 pounds and today I am 145 pounds. I am a perfectly willing to give him a return match.

To show how confident I was of winning, I bet something like $400 on myself at the prevailing odds of 10 to 1. I am only twenty-one years old and that's young enough to leave me a few years to fight in.

PORT WYNE, Ind., Sept. 3.—Jimmy Gardner, of Lowell, Mass., knocked out Dick Fitzpatrick, of Chicago, in the second round of what was scheduled for a ten-round no-holds-bar fight.

Fitzpatrick never had a look-in for the clever Gardner, and the going stayed in the hands of the latter.

FEARS WAR IN FAR EAST
"Not only the United States, but Europe is to be brought to face a very grave situation by Japan in the not too far distant future. There is considerable ill-feeling noticeable in Japan at this time against the United States and much resentment is cherished in relation to what they claim ill-treatment of Japanese in San Francisco." Statement made by United States Senator William J. Stone of Missouri, who arrived this morning from the Orient on the Japanese liner Hongkong Maru.
Senator Stone returned with his wife and daughter after an extended tour through Japan, part of which time he was a guest of the Japanese Emperor.
"We saw everything in Japan, from the Emperor down to the rickshaw man," declared Senator Stone this morning, "and must say I was treated in the most friendly manner possible by all the persons in the Orient."
With Senator Charles A. Towne of New York, Senator Stone left Vancouver May 1 on the steamer Empress of China on a special mission as a member of the committee upon the Philippines in the Senate to inquire into the needs and prosperity of the islands.
NO BACK SEAT.
Asked as to his views on the question of conflict between the United States and Japan, Senator Stone said:
"The Japanese are a pretty cocky people, and they feel that they should be treated in the same manner as we are. In fact, they are not inclined to make a back seat and sooner or later in their lust for power, will make a determined effort to control all Oriental commerce. This is a feeling of resentment, although it is somewhat softened, in Japan against the United States relative to the dominating influence here in the Pacific against the Japs in San Francisco. Many of the dispatches received, however, regarding the Japanese, are not so much exaggerated, although they are not inclined to look upon the matter in that light."
FACE GRAVE PROBLEM.
"With its nearly 20,000,000 of people, Japan must find some particular industrial line to occupy their time. The most likely manner possible by the Japs is to dominate the commerce of the Orient. Such action, however, will be taken with but one purpose in view, and that is to bring the United States and Great Britain and the United States against Europe and the United States as a unit of this contention are now facing a grave problem."
Japanese military officers are now being sent to the United States to study the army of the Mikado, and every effort is being made to safeguard Japanese interests in the Orient, but what we can hold at home.

investigations thus far made. It is pected that this will be authorized.

COME AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, September 2.—According to a change of plan at the Department of Agriculture, a large part of the work of analysis and study which was to have been done at the San Francisco laboratory in reference to the question of sulphured fruits may be done in Washington. Dr. Bigelow, the assistant chemist of the Bureau of Chemistry, has telegraphed Dr. H. W. Wiley, asking for authority to send samples here and to hire a freight car to transport the samples collected in the course of the summer.

The simmons will be made from time to time. These experiments are intended to the effect of the passage of time in a maturing sulphur from the fruit. The immediate experiments are intended to the quantity of sulphur in the fruit at different stages of the preserving process, as well as when served on a table, will be carried out at the laboratory in San Francisco. It is expected that about two weeks from now it will be possible to announce some of the results. meantime the Bureau of Chemistry probably will issue its bulletin on the effect of sulphur on the health of consumers.

Health in the Canal Zone.
The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artists to join the force of skilled workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained, however, by the fear of fever and malaria. It is the knowing ones—those who have used Electric Bitters—who go there without this fear. We know they are safe from malaria in the Canal Zone with Electric Bitters on hand. Cures blood poison, too, biliousness, weakness, and all stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Guaranteed by Osgood Bros. druggists, Twelfth and Broadway and corner Twelfth and Washington streets 830.

The ill-smelling, sticky odor which often clings to washing even after it is dried, starched and ironed is caused by imperfect and impure soap. Use GASENE and all garments washed with same will be sanitary, spotlessly white and smell fresh and sweet.

GREAT THROG VIEWS TRIBUNE'S GRAND $1500 PRIZE TOURING CAR

Beautiful Machine Takes Spin Amid Thousands of Admirers Celebrating Labor Day---Time Is Ripe for Contestants to Begin to Hustle.

One of the special features of labor day was THE TRIBUNE'S grand prize of a $1500 automobile that will be awarded to the most popular person in the grand $10,000 prize contest.

The Rumble touring car was out for a spin before and during the parade and was admired by the thousands of spectators on the line of march. The machine is a beauty and many an admirer wanted the touring car. The way to get it is by entering THE TRIBUNE contest. The car will be given to some one and why not you?

The nominations are coming in slowly, so there is a splendid opportunity to get in the race and win one of the forty valuable prizes.

Walter Southard, 535 Franklin street, wants the fine bicycle to be awarded to some boy living east of Grove street. Walter is a student at Lincoln school and is very popular.

MRS. HAMMOND PRAISED.

The following letter has been received by the contest editor in regard to the candidacy of Mrs. Richard H. Hammond:

"Contest Manager, OAKLAND TRIBUNE: Dear Sir:—In Sunday's TRIBUNE I saw the announcement that Mrs. Richard H. Hammond had been entered by her friends in THE TRIBUNE automobile contest. I wish to say a few words in praise of Mrs. Hammond, who has been a most active worker in behalf of the Catholic church and several societies. She has not only given her time freely, but has always been willing to share her purse. I trust she will receive the automobile, which she so richly deserves."

"AN OBSERVING FRIEND."

GET IN NOW.

Enter your name now. Enter the contest now, and then go to see your nearest and dearest friends and tell them that you have made up your mind to win a prize.

Tell them what prize you want and see how quick they will give you all their help and as a starter subscribe to the paper to give you 1000 votes. One thousand makes a big lot of votes, but, then, it's only a one-year subscription and not at all hard to get, and by getting ten yearly subscriptions will mean many thousands of votes for you.

And the only thing you will have to do to get these votes will be to ASK FOR THEM.

When you are declared the winner you will claim your prize with joy that you went into the contest and worked hard to capture it.

PRIZES THE VERY BEST.

Every one of the prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE have been selected with the greatest care and to meet the requirements of the lucky candidates who will carry them off.

"The best is more than good" applies in the selection of these prizes, and the contestants winning them can well feel proud of the fact that they entered the contest and worked until the end, and feel assured that the prizes won are of the very best.

If your name is not already among the candidates who have signified their intentions of winning one of the prizes, send it in and prove your superiority in more ways than one. Be among the winners, and this paper will be proud to present to you the prize for which you worked so zealously.

"Put not off until tomorrow that can be done today. Be done today. But early to enter the race and lead all the way."

BE AMBITIOUS.

Make up your mind to get out of the same trend of daily existence and rise far above your present condition. Only one way to go about it, and that is to become determined to take the risk and back up the risk with an energetic effort to make the goal at whatever cost.

And do it today; if you put it off until tomorrow you may change your mind. Entries can be made any time during the contest, and it will never be too late to enter. "The early bird catches the worm" can be applied in this case, as the earlier the start the better the finish.

The first thing to do is to become determined to win at all hazards and to let no opportunity pass whereby you will have a subscription entitling you to the votes. Then, see every one of your friends and have them either give their subscription to you or promise it, as no doubt every one will be needed in the final count. Possibly a few thousand votes will mean the turning of the tide in your favor and make a difference in the vote of your closest competitor.

Start now. Don't wait until tomorrow, as by then some one may have been to see that particular party and either secured the subscription or the promise, which is good and will come in later.

SUCCESS COUNTS.

Nothing counts so much in the world as a man or woman full of ambition and life and one who is determined to GET THERE at all hazards.

Business men are continually watching the movements and progress of those whom they, at some time or other, may employ, and as one they invariably pick those who are hustlers, those who are imbued with the vim and vigor of youth and those who display the spirit of determination and earnestness of purpose. Success counts. Success by halves is no success, and to be successful one must work and work hard to attain any end whatever. The contest will be worth more in practical experience to an ambitious, energetic person than one would imagine, and an experience which will double itself in value many times in more ways than one.

MAKE IT YOURSELF.

Don't sit back and allow others to grasp every opportunity which presents itself and wait continually for things to "come your way." The only way for things to come your way is to get in and hustle them your way.

The saying, "Things come to those who wait" most certainly will not apply in this case, as in three short months every one of the forty prizes will have been distributed to the active hustlers in this campaign of votes and subscriptions, and if you do not get in and win one of them you may as well become reconciled to the fact that in fifty years you will still be waiting for the inevitable; for it will never happen.

GETTING SOMETHING FOR NOTHING.

Become determined first and then determine your friends on the question. They will help you and are waiting for you to show that spirit of determination first. If you possess that faculty they certainly will rally to your support and do everything in their power to have you win. SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE WAITING and all you have to do is to go after them. Can you do it or will you do it? It's up to you. Enter your name, then go to work.

CHARGES CHAUFFEUR WITH RECKLESSNESS

Richard Gunnerson, a chauffeur, was arrested at the corner of Seventh and Washington streets yesterday for reckless driving. The arresting officer charges that Gunnerson drove his ma-

Caught Stealing

A few days ago we had a dealer arrested and are now prosecuting him for putting another—cheaper—beer into our bottles and selling it as Schlitz.

Substitution robs you as well as us.

Our yeast is distinctive; no other brewery's is the same. It is developed from an original mother cell brought to this country by one of the founders of our business.

Our grain and our hops are selected from the best that is grown. We pay more than our "just as good" imitator to get a quality better than he thinks is "good enough" for his beer.

The theft of our name—giving you another beer when you think you are getting Schlitz—is what robs us.

You think you have had Schlitz—are disappointed and may not ask for it again—therefore, we are most anxious that you get our beer and not a substitute. So we say

CHEWING GUM CAUSES DEATH

Young Woman Unable to Stop Habit Dies From Lockjaw.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—A victim of her own habit of chewing gum almost incessantly, Miss Elizabeth Goodwin, 21 years old, died yesterday in the Samaritan Hospital from lock-jaw. For ten years she had been addicted to the gum chewing habit and her jaws, which had worked incessantly, finally became clamped. She died in agony as her fiancé, to whom she was to have been married next month, stood by her bedside.

Miss Goodwin acquired the habit when a child, and in school she was punished frequently for it. The teachers were unable to make her give up the habit. Her parents remonstrated with her, but their scoldings were fruitless.

When the young woman became engaged her fiancé told her it made him nervous to watch her jaws moving constantly and Miss Goodwin made a determined effort to give up the habit. She was unable to do so.

Baughman, president of the Hydro-Carbon Paint Company of San Francisco, slipped and fell yesterday afternoon on a cement step at 1070 Broadway, sustaining a fracture of the right leg between the knee and ankle. Baughman weighs more than 200 pounds and when he lost his balance on the slippery step he sustained a hard fall. The police patrol was called and the injured man removed to the receiving hospital, where Dr. H. Kotford reduced the fracture. The patient was afterward taken to his home at the corner of Chetwood street and Santa Rosa avenue.
